WILSON WANTS PLAIN ANSWERS

Will Brush Aside All Germany's Quibbles to American Demands

MUST FACE THE ISSUE

Cabinet Agrees on Outline of Document Which Will Insist Upon Strict Accountability.

Washington, D. C. June 2—The essential details of the United States' policy with respect to the German note received were agreed upon at a long session of President Wilson's Cabinet yesterday. At the end of the discussion there was absolute unanimity of opinion between the President and his advisers as to what should be done.

Following is an authoritative summary of the statement of the American Government's position, which will be made by the note now being formulated by the President in accord with this agreement:

First—The German Government will be informed that all of the issues of fact raised in its reply are irrelevant to the vital issue raised by the American note, and that an investigation or discussion of these facts would merely have the effect of beclouding the issue.

Second—It will be stated that the German reply utterly ignores the vital issue raised by the United States.

Third—The United States will announce that all of the complaints upon which the three demands in the Lusitania note were based are grounded solely on the principal that non-combatants aboard a commerce carrier are entitled under international law and the humanities to an opportunity to escape with their lives before such a vessel is attacked.

Fourth—Germany will be told that the United States will not consider a suggestion for arbitration unless the practices complained against are discontinued for the period in which the issue to be arbitrated is under consideration by the International Tribunal. This would amount to a reiteration of the demand for the discontinuance of the German submarine warfare, and it might be viewed as conveying the inference that under such a condition the United States might assent to arbitration.

Fifth—The United States will state that she will use every possible means to prevent the violation of her rights as established by international law, merely because one belligerent considers that a second belligerent has by act committed in this war violated certain principles of international law, and will say that the United States will recognize only such changes in international law as may be made by the international conference called at the end of the war.

That the note will not be sent before Thursday is the prevalent belief, because Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, has been granted an interview with the President. Its purpose has not been revealed, but in Austro-German quarters it is said von Bernstoff will endeavor by informal discussion to reach an understanding as to the wish of the United States for transmission to his Government at Berlin, but it is not thought likely that the Ambassador's visit will alter the determination reached at the Cabinet meteing.

The Cabinet did not fix upon the steps that are to be taken in the event that Germany refuses our reiterated demands. Three optional courses were considered. These are a declaration of war, the severance of diplomatic relations, and the establishment of an embargo against Germany. The last named act would have the effect of throwing all the United States upon the side of Germany's enemies.

ROYAL ARCANUM UPHELD.

Can Increase Assessments, Supreme Court Rules.

Washington, June 2.—The Supreme Court handed down yesterday a number of decisions.

In the case of the Royal Arcanum versus Samuel Green, of Brooklyn, a case involving the right of the order to increase the assessment of a member after he has been elected, the decision of the lower court was reversed, the finding being that such assessments could be increased.

All the 12,000 certificate holders in the former Safety Fund Department of the Hartford Life Insurance Company, conducted on the "mutual assessment plan," were held to have been bound by the decision of the Connecticut courts in 1910, that the company, after closing its list of members, could continue to collect assessments to meet liabilities.

The decision was announced in a suit brought by Mrs. Eliza Ibs, in Minnesota, on a policy held by her husband. He had refused to pay the assessments after new members were no longer accepted.

Constitutionality of the Mississippi Anti-Fraternity law was upheld without dissent. J. P. Waugh, a member of Kappa Sigma Fraternity at Millsaps College, Miss., in 1912 applied for admission to the Law School of the University of Mississippi, but was denied admittance because he refused to sign an "anti-fraternity pledge" not to aid the organization or perpetuation of any fraterity while a member of the university. He filed a suit to compel the university authorities to admit him, contending that the Anti-Fraternity law enacted by the State of Mississippi in 1912 was unconstitutional.

The law was attacked on the ground that it worked discriminations as to honors, diplomas and distinctions as between students in the university at the time the law was passed and those fraternity members who later became students at the university.

Use of initials in business affairs, even in bankruptcy porceedings, instead of full names, was approved by the Supreme Court that it was not a satisfactory compliance with the bankruptcy law for George F. Kreitlin, of Indianapolis, to register as one of his creditors "C. Ferger" rather than "Charles Ferger."

The court also held it was not necessary or a bankrupt to give street addresses of creditors, even in large cities.

Prosecution for conspiracy to conceal goods of a bankrupt may be brought within three years after the offense, the Supreme Court decided in the case of William Rabinowich, of New York. The New York District Court's holding that prosecutions were barred after one year was reversed.

In the first decision under the 1910 amendment to the Federal Employers' Liability law the Supreme Court held that an administrator is permitted to recover both for pecuniary loss to an employer's estate and for the pain and suffgering by the deceased.

SAMSON TOMORROW

When Samson pulled down the temple of bibical fame he merely created a small stir in the Philistine country, but when the modern Samson pulled down the pillars of gold that supported the temple dedicated to Mammon, he shook the whole financial world. See William Farnum the one hundred thousand dollar a year photo-player actor, in his famous characterization of Samson. The most masterful feature of the year at the Surprise, Thursday.

Reports at the first business meeting yesterday morning of the Confederated Southern Memorial Association in Richmond shows that several monuments have been erected in the past year, many thousands of dollars raised and spent, much historical data added to the historical knowledge of the South, and a number of new junior asociations been formed.

VETERANS LOYAL TO PRESIDENT

Former Confederates Join In Prayers for the End of War.

BLESSINGS OF PEACE

Sons of Men Who Wore the Grey Echo Spirit of Men Who Faced War Half a Century Ago.

Richmond, June 2.—Pledges of support to the President of the United States "in these perilous times" and prayers for righteous peace of the world characterized the opening here of the twenty-fifth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans.

To the tunes of "Dixie," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," and "Stonewall Jackson's Way," thousands of wearers of the grey from all parts of the Southland marched through the gaily bedecked streets of the old capital of the Confederacy to the City Auditorium.

Braving a driving rain and a raw wind as light-heartedly as when they marched under the Stars and Bars fifty years ago, the 7,000 veterans braved discomfort and inconvenience and there was no damper upon the spirits of the Veterans and Sons of Veterans.

With the first strains of music the four thousand who gathered in the city found it impossible to repress the seling tides of emotion surging up within them, and they did not try. The rebel yell was uttered from nearly every throat.

Inspired as they filed into the hall by hundred of "Stars and Bars" waved aloft by a concourse of boys and girls, the aged survivors of the armies of the Confederacy pranced and shouted themselves hoarse, later displaying boundless enthusiasm at the sight of a black clad little woman, the widow of General J. E. B. Stuart, a cavalry hero of the South, who was presented to the assembly.

In the midst of their acclaim of the Confederate cause, and while the rebel yell was being sounded, there came to the session of the convention a letter asking that a prayer for peace in the warring nations of Europe be uttered at some time during every day of the veterans' meetings. The letter was signed by Mrs. Norman V. Randolph, Mrs. Archer Anderson, Miss Sallie Archer Anderson, Mrs. Charles E. Bolling, Mrs. Chas. O. B .Cowardin, Mrs. Abbey M. Gwathmey, Mrs. Edwin A. Ezekiel, Miss Annie Christian and Mrs. J. Taylor Ellyson.

In a voice strained with the emotion of remembered things, Adjutant-General Mickle read thesimple message. The letter said that the people of the Confederacy could understand better, perhaps, than could other people the stress which the people of Europe are now undergoing.

In his address of welcome on behalf of the veterans of Virginia, Judge D. Gardiner Tyler, son of President John Tyler, struck the note of the spirit which made possible the generation of the Confederacy and its regeneration today. He compared the trials and sufferings of the people of the South with those which Belgium, the buffer land of Europe, has so recently undergone. It is in such a spirit of immolation, he said, that the republic will ever find its surest defense, and if ever the dream of universal peace shall be realized, it will be due to the acceptance of the nations of the principles for which the Confederate soldiers fought and died.

The grand parade which will be held tomorrow will be the closing scene of the reunion.

POLAND'S CROP WAR BABIES.

Nearly 400,000 Expected, Says Madame Paderewski.

Chicago, Ill., June 2.—Poland's only crop this year will be war babies. Upon the trail blazed by the invading German Army, between 300,000 and 400,000 unfortunates will open their eyes before autumn, only to close them again in death by starvation.

There will be nothing for them to eat as there is nothing now for their mothers, or for any of the inhabitants of this once prosperous country. The fields are barren.

"A land of starvation—that's all. Poland is now," Mme. Ignace Paderewski, wife of the great pianist, said yesterday. "The land has been the highway for the war ever since it began. A nation is dying there from hunger. That is why my husband is so heartbroken; that is why he and other men like him are devoting all their time and incomes to the raising of a relief fund to help allay the destitution in their native land.

"Think of it. They are expecting at a conservative estimate nearly half a million war babies in that country. There is scarcely anything to eat any place, except in a compartively small area near Warsaw. There is not a cow in Poland; the German Army took all cattle in that first invasion of last August. The people cannot cultivate the ground because they have neither seeds nor implements."

GERMAN SEAMEN GO MAD

Bad Food Blamed for Insanity in Merchant Fleet.

New York, June 2—The health commissioner of Hoboken, Dr. Joseph Stack, said today that he was convinced the insanity of a number of sailors of the German ships lying there was caused by bad food. The local officers of the Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd lines strongly combated this idea, saying that the food was the same as customarily served to the seamen and was perfectly good.

The number of insane sailors removed from the fleet of a dozen liners was put by Dr. Stack at a higher figure than had been published hitherto. Twelve insane men have been removed from the ships in the past two months and are now under the care of New Jersey authorities, he said.

There are 5,000 German sailors now idle at Hoboken and 90 per cent of these, Dr. Stack declares are under-nourished and anaemic. The authorities fear than insanity may continue to spread and that an epidemic of beri-beri may develop unless there is prompt improvement.

HINDUS KILL MANY BRITISH

News of Revolt in Punjab Reaches San Francisco.

San Francisco, June 2—Ten British officials and more than 200 soldiers were killed in an uprising of Hindu revolutionists in Lahore, the capital of the Punjab, British India, late in April, acording to information received today by P. Ram Chandra, editor of the Hindu revolutionary organ in this city.

The massacre took place in the Shalamar Park, the government headquarters in Lahore, which for over 400 years was the palace of the Mughal empire before the advent of English control.

This is the most decisive action on the part of the rebels in India since their uprising last spring, according to Chandra.

Rebels advancing from the northern frontier mountains according to letters received by Chandra, pierced the government lines to within one mile of Peshawar, known as the "key to India." The strongly fortified position proved too much for the Hindus who were driven back.

AUSTRO-GERMANS INVEST PEREMYSL

Invaders Claim They Have Captured Forts Around Stronghold

ITALY PROGRESSING.

Turks Said to Have Lost One Hundred Thousand Men During The Past Forty-Eight Hours.

London, June 2—In the face of Russian claims on Monday that the Austro-German grip on Peremysl had been broken and that the offensive in the great Galician struggle had passed to the Russians, both German and Austrian official statements assert that the Austro-German troops have been successful to the north and the southeast of the fortress, that the forts girding it to the north have fallen into their hands, while to the southeast they have wrested Stry from the Russians.

In fact, the Austro-Germans say that the campaign is running in their favor everywhere in the eastern zone, from Libau, in the north, to the southernmost tip of the Galician battle-line.

It is apparent that the Russians, since being forced back to the San, have been rushing up heavy reinforcements in the hope of averting the fall of Peremysl. But the Austro-Germans, undeterred by the stupendous losses, have as yet shown little disposition to accept a purely defensive role, and the British critics seem to have been a bit premature in saying that the German thrust had definitely failed.

Rome, June 2—The Italian fleet has destroyed the Austrian wireless station on the Island of Lissa, off the Dalmatian coast and the semaphore on the Island of Cursola.

Rome, June 2—Bombardment of the Austrian town of Mori, three miles from Rovereto, has begun, Italian batteries posted on the heights of Monte Altissimo have wrecked the railway bridge across the Adige and have damaged the railway station.

Athens, June 2—The Turks have suffered terrible losses in night attacks on Gallipoli peninsula in the past fortyeight hours. Mytilene dispatches today said the heavy Turkish casualties in the recent fighting make it appear probable that their losses since the Dardanelles fighting began will total close to 100,000.

Officered by Germans, the Turks are hurling themselves against the allied positions near Gaba Tepe in close formation. From their warships the allies have brought ashore powerful searchlights, which have been posted on the cliffs. At a signal from the outposts the advancing enemy columns are swept with a glare of light and then riddled by machine gun fire.

The Turks have been heavily reenforced in the past few days, but respite their attacks the allied troops retain all their positions.

FLOOD ON GERMAN REPLY

Virginia Representative Does Not Take a Gloomy View of the Situation.

Washington, D. C., June 2—Congressman H. D. Flood, of Virginia, chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, and a close student of international relations, does not agree with the gloomy view taken by most public men of the present situation between the United States and Germany.

He declares his confidence in President Wilson's judgment of what is best to do and say in the present crisis, and expressed his firm belief that he will be able to handle the situation in such a way as to smooth over the troubled waters and at the same time obtain Germany's agreement to every demand made by the United States in President Wilson's first note.

"I do not believe the situation is as gloomy as the majority of people consider it," said Mr. Flood. "Germany is cut off from all communication from this country, and the Berlin foreign office, when preparing its reply to President Wilson's note, could not appreciate the feeling of the people here and the serious attitude of our government.

FIGHTING AT PRZEMYSL

Napoleon's Battles Child's Play Compared to Modern Clash

Petrograd, June 2—It is hard to omagine anything more tremendous than the battle now raging around Przemysl. The neat compact and picturesque battles of Napoleon were child's play compared with this latest effort of modern warfare, in which details of personal valor, skillful moves and counter moves are submerged in the blinding and deafening clash of vast hosts.

Between Jaroslaw and Przemysl Gen. Mackensen has concentrated on the right bank of the San 1,000,000 men, with a corresponding quantity of artillery. The quiet fields on which the peasants were peacefully plowing six weeks ago are now deluged by a storm of explosives such as has never before been known in all history.

The hopeful feature in this carnage on the San is that the Russians are delaying the German advance, and, more than that, in counter attacks are taking thousands of prisoners.

Time, which is all-important to the Germans, is slipping out of their hands. Gen. Mackensen's aim is to reach the Przemysl-Lvoff Railway, and, meeting the force which has been struggling to break through the Russian lines southeast of Przemysl to surround the fortress.

But the southern forces, after a long series of unavailing attacks, is now passive, and the communications to Przemysl are still safe.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear daughter, LEONA P SULLIVAN, who died three years ago today, June 2nd, 1912.

Gone from earth has gone forever,
Tear-dimed eyes shall gaze in vain
We shall hear her voice oh never,
Never more on earth again.

By her devoted mother and father, sisters and brothers.

WILSON'S NEW MEXICAN POLICY

Determines That Order Shall be Restored in Southern Country.

IS IT INTERVENTION?

United States Will Not be Swayed From Course by Possible Necessity for Drastic Action.

Washington, June 2—President Wilson and his Cabinet have adopted a new Mexican policy. It has for its object restoration of order and the relief of milions of noncombatants from the devastations of Mexico's military elements which have brought about conditions described as intolerable.

The President has read to the Cabinet a statement to be communicated to the leaders of all Mexican factions serving notice that unless they themselves compose the situation, some other means will be found by the United States to bring about the establishment of a stable government. The statement was approved after prolonged discussion.

The specific course the United States will pursue in the event the contending factions fail to agree is not outlined in the Presidents statement, but the administration's present purpose is to give moral support to a coalition of the best elements in Mexico, and accord the government thereby created formal recognition. With such recognition would come an embargo on arms, permitting the constituted government to receive munitions of war to the exclusion of all other elements and factions.

That the government's policy, if unsuccessful in this course, might require ultimate intervention has been considered, and the intention to insist on a settlement has not been swayed by the possible necessity of such action. In high executive quarters, however, confidence prevails that the expression of the American government's attitude will clear up misapprehensions that have exsted in Mexico, as to its intentions, and bring about the desired coalition government.

ANTI-GERMAN RIOTS

Mobs in London Attack Teutons and Destroy Property

London, June 2— Anti-German riots more furious than any yet experienced, broke out here yesterday afternoon as a result of the Zeppelin raid over London Monday night. An enormous amount of German-owned property was destroyed. Persons suspected of German nationality or German sympathies were mobbed.

Four killed, one fatally wounded, and five others, seriously hurt, is the total of casualties resulting from the air raid. One infant, one boy, a man and a woman, were killed outright by bombs dropped from Zeppelins that passed over the outlying districts.

Ninety bombs most of incendiary character, were dropped.

Three big fires and several smaller ones were started, but all were soon conquered by the firemen. No public buildings were damaged.

In adition to the seriously injured

In addition to the seriously injured are suffering from lesser wounds. The attack threw sections of the city into panic and the special "war constables" of Scotland Yard were called out to deal with the situation.

Number of School Children Augmented 674 Since Last Census in 1910.

A called meeting of the City School Board was held last night for the purpose of receiving the report of the clerk, Harry Kirk, who has recently made a census of children in Alexandria who are eligibile as scholars of the public schools. The report shows that there are 1628 white male children and 1532 females.Colored male children number 523 and females 650,making a grand total of 4,383. In 1910, when the previous census was atken, there was an enrollment of 2584 white children and 1,075 colored, making a total of 3,659. This year's census shows an increase of 674. The city will receive from the state about $3 for each child, and the sum from that source will be from $12,000 to $13,000 this year.

Delani has refused to return the money and the arrest is the result.

Rauba is a bachelor, and while complaining of his loneliness to Delani declared that he would like to have a wife and baby.

"I'll sell you mine for $5," said Delani and a bargain was quickly struck.

When Rauba went to the Delani home to tell the woman what had happened, he discovered that this was a sale in which it took three to make the bargain. Mrs. Delani positively refused to have her baby and herself sold, and she was not long in causing Rauba to leave the place.

Rauba then went after Delani and demanded his money. Delani, who claimed the fault was not his that the sale did not go through as negitiated refused to refund it. Rauba then went to Alderman Frank Hoary and caused a warrant to be issued for Delani.

Are the Modern, Sanitary Kind

White Enamel or Porcelain-lined Refrigerators are now wanted by all considerate housekeepers. And they are so practical, sanitary and cleanly in appearance that is is really no wonder that they are in such general use.

So much for the lining, but the refrigeration and economy of ice consumption are more important. The insulation in all our Refrigerators is granulated cork, proven to be the best through many eperiments—non-conductor of heat and air, and consequently economical in consumption of ice. A thorough distribution of the cold-air is constantly reaching the food compartments, so that the food is kept pure and suitable for use.

Our special at $7.50—A household style Refrigerator of good size and design, with white enamel lining.

White Porcelain Lined Refrigerators, $17.75 to $47.50.

JEALOUS OF BRITTANIA.

While the warring nations may show many causes which they allege have precipitated the present war, it has been manifest at times during the past two-score years that the position of Great Britain as the mistress of the sea has long been ranking in the breasts of Germany. People who have made a stduy of foreign politics since the close of the Franco-German war have often noticed the hostile feeling of the Teutonic against the Anglo-Saxon race. The former has aspired to supplant England, and in recent years the Kaiser has spent millions in dreadnaughts, while the merchant fleet of Fatherland has been increased to an enormous extent. Great Britain, in order to offset Germany, has built two vessels every time Germany has laid the keel for one, and the companies operating steamship lines have been taxed almost beyond endurance to construct passenger ships which would be larger and superior to their Teutonic rivals.

The Kaiser has had during all these years the most perfect fighting machine in the world, but he fretted when he thought of England's maritime prowess, as he desired to be supreme on both land and sea.

Forty years or more ago people who watched the signs of the times predicted this titanic strugle for supremacy, and on several occasions the clash has been narrowly averted by astute statesmanship.

An interview with von Jagow, the German Foreign Minister, is published in the newspapers today, and his language shows that prohets of years ago were by no means false, and although they received but little attention at the time they flourished, their forecasts were not of the uncertain class. Von Jagow, among other things, uses the following significant language:

"England always claimed to be the dictator of the high seas. We are striving to make England give up her world."

Comment is unnecessary.

SPREA... BLACK...

Lord Rosenberry, in a impressive speech at Bath, England, yesterday said:

'A black cloud is overspreading all the world. Think what a vast, ghastly whirlpool this war is. Beginning with five of the greatest nations of Europe, it is gradually sucking in all those who would willingly remain outside—first, Japan, then Italy, and it is improbale that the remaning Balkan states will long be able to refrain from active participation in the struggle. The United States seems hovering on the brink, although that country is so remote that it may well be spared the agony of these dark days."

German political circles believe America is playing into the hands of Great Britain and has entered, or will soon enter, into a formal understanding with the allies.

The words of Lord Rosenberry are in the main unfortunately true but his conviction that the United States is on the brink of war may not be so well-founded. The statement from Berlin to the effect that the United States is about to enter into an alliance with the allies hardly needs any answer. The man occupying the White House at present has no idea of disregarding the warning of Geo. Washington, who in his day saw the train of misfortunes which would surely befall the United States should it enter into any entangling coalition with foreign countries.

REBEL YELL IN RICHMOND.

The City Auditorium in Richmond yesterday was the scene of the wildest enthusiasm when thousands of former wearers of the grey gave vent to the rebel yell, heard so often in the Old Dominion during the four years' war, and no doubt brought to the minds of some present similar scenes in Odd Fellows' Hall in Alexandria twenty years ago. In 1895 there was a reunion of the followers of Colonel John S. Mosby in this city, which was attended by many ex-Confederates as well as by numbers who were non combattants during the war between the north and the south. Upon the appearance of their former leader the members of his command went off in a series of yells which brought the large company to their feet. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed for some time.

The reunion of Mosby's men and the dedication of the Confederate Monument at Prince and Washington streets May 24, 1889, were the most successful events connected with the history of the late Southern Confederacy ever witnessed in this city.

The late General Fitzhugh Lee delivered the oration on the latter occasion, and many persons from other cities were present.

When the Mosby veterans met a number of quiet Alexandrians never suspected by their many friends of belonging to his gallant band appeared with their credentials. Among the number was a well known colored shoemaker, who was one of the cooks to the command.

The largest gathering was at night when a grand banquet was served. General Gordon and Senator John W. Daniel were the principal speakers. Colonel Mosby was, of course, called on, but he was filled with emotion and could say but little when he scanned the faces of most of his old followers.

Brutal and unprovoked attacks upon German residents of Italy who failed to leave that country when diplomatic relations with Germany were severed are reported. Milan has been the hotbed of anti-German attacks since Italy declared war on Austria. Many Germans have been beaten and damage to the extent of more than $250,000 has been done to German-owned property in that city alone.

On a warrant secured by Acting Secretary Dinsmore, of the Department of Labor, Maxamillian Along, 21, who said he was a cigarmaker, was arrested in New York yesterday on a charge of anarchy. Three Turkish regiments were almost wholly wiped out in the fierce fighting along the southern part of the Gallipoli peninsula. So enormous were the Turkish losses in the fighting with the Anglo-French allies around Krithia that naval officers and cadets were used to replace the Turkish infantrymen on the firing line. During the darkness two Turkish battalions attacked each other by mistake near Gaba Tepeh (on the northern shore of the peninsula), nearly annihilating each other.

Captain Messel, of the Norweigan steamship Gronstad, which arrived yesterday at Galveston, Texas, from Androssan, told of a narrow escape from attack by a German submarine. On May 5, while the Gronstad was about 40 miles off Cork, a German submarine appeared. The captain said he ordered his engines stopped and then saw a torpedo fired at his vessel, whereupon he ordered full speed ahead. The torpedo crossed the steamer's wake, barely six feet astern. The Gronstad's name and colors were plainly painted on her sides. She was in ballast.

VON JAGOW'S VIEWS

"Germany" He Says, "Is Fighting For The Freedom of The Seas"

Berlin, June 2—"America ought to be reasonable enough to grant Germany time and the right to discuss the facts of the Lusitania attack."

Herr Gottlieb von Jagow, German foreign secretary, who drafted the German reply to the American note, so declared in an interview. He expressed the hope that further discussion of the Lusitania incident would bring the United States and Germany to a complete understanding as to the facts in dispute and that an agreement would be reached.

"America can hardly expect us to give up any means at our disposal to fight our enemy," said Herr von Jagow. 'It is a principle with us to defend ourselves in every possible way. I am sure that Americans will be reasonable enough to believe that our two countries cannot discuss the Lusitania matter until both have the same basis of facts.

"Germany is fighting for the freedom of the seas. It is far from Germany's intention to interfer with neutral rights or to become the autocrat of the oceans."

"Could you explain in more detail how Germany is fighting for the freedom of the seas?" I asked. "I ear that America will not understand.

"Well England always claimed to be the dictator of the high seas," continued Herr von Jagow, until our recent marine activities. Her rule was never challenged. We are fighting to make England give up her hold, because so long as one country controls the oceans they are not free. Every nation must have right on the seas.

"The world must not forget that England was the first belligerent to violate the rules of the oceans. England first put mines in the North Sea and she was the first to declare a war zone. She was the first to declare that she would starve our women and children. England must be the first to go back and make the war normal."

The secretary emphasized this last remark with a rap on the desk that left no doubt as to the firmness of his convictions.

"What is Germany's position regarding neutrals traveling on belligerent ships?" he was asked.

"That returns to the Lusitania matter," he replied. "We feel, before we discuss that officially with the United States, that the two governments must have a clear and definite understanding of the facts. That is what Germany seeks to convey in her note We believe Americans are reasonable enough to grant us time first to come to an understanding on every fact.

"We do not believe the American government understands our viewpoint. For us it is a principle to defend ourselves in every way at our command. There was enough ammunition aboard the Lusitania kill 50,000 soldiers. Do you blame us for using every means to destroy that to save the lives of 50,000 of our men?"

When the secretary finished his voice trembled, showing his convictions were deeply rooted.

WISHED SHE COULD DIE

And Be Free From Her Troubles, but Finds Better Way.

Columbia, Tenn.—"Many a time," says Mrs. Jessie Sharp, of this place, "I wished I would die and be relieved of my suffering, from womanly troubles. I could not get up, without pulling at something to help me, and stayed in bed most of the time. I could not do my housework.

The least amount of work tired me out. My head would swim, and I would tremble for an hour or more. Finally, I took Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I am not bothered with pains any more, and I don't have to go to bed. In fact, I am sound and well of all my troubles."

Cardui goes to all the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It acts with nature—not against her. It is for the tired, nervous, irritable women, who feel as if everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their nerves and strengthen the worn-out system.

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the numerous symptoms of womanly trouble, take Cardui. It will help you. At all druggists.

LUSITANIA'S CARGO

Alleged That Illfated Cunard Steamer Carried Four Guns

New York, June 1—A Washington dispatch to the New York American says:

The State Department has received four affidavits stating that when the Lusitania sailed on her last voyage she was armed with four guns of "good size"—two mounted forward and two mounted aft. According to the affidavits, they were mounted on an upper desk.

Three affidavits are from persons who say they were told by a passenger just before the Lusitania sailed that he had seen the guns. The passenger, an American, was saved. The fourth affidavit is from a man who says he saw the guns.

It was learned from a State Department official that seven other affidavits questioning the Lusitania's manifest have been received.

In the manifest appeared this item "Furs, 349 packages, valued at $119 220, consigned to Liverpool.

It was said today that an affidavit would be submitted by a person connected with the firm making the shipment that the packages contained gun cotton. Evidence is expected, also, that the Lusitania's cargo contained acids used in the manufacture of explosives.

The State Department does not expect a charge that the Cunard Steamship Company made a false manifest. It is taken for granted that the steamship company was not responsible, as it proceeds on the sworn statement of the shippers that the packages contained the merchandise described by them.
